2. Summary of R&D activity pursued by the institute during the assessment period in both national and international contexts

1. Basic research in all main research directions e. g. theory of state and law and legal philosophy, public law and civil law

- results of its research activities are applied in the legislative process as well – one of most crucial practical influence of the Institute's work

2. Various expertise and consulting activities in various form having ground on basic research, extend and related to broad scale of national as well as international legal questions:

2. Summary of R&D activity pursued by the institute during the assessment period in both national and international contexts

- works precedent to adoption of legal norms, where the aim of new legal regulation has been regulation of negative social impacts (e.g. family violence, violence on women, gender non-equality),
- new ordering of legal relationships in certain area of social relations (e.g. within sport or institutional basement of state sector of research and development) or
- adopting of new codes, which will complexly regulate legal relations (e.g. Civil procedural code)
- Institute has also formulated expert opinions on broad area of legal questions, such as basic questions of the Slovak constitutional legal order (e.g. status of the Slovak National Council and President of the Slovak Republic in the parliamentary form of government) and law-governed state (e.g. problematics of indirect amendments of the Constitution of the Slovak Republic)

2. Summary of R&D activity pursued by the institute during the assessment period in both national and international contexts

- focus to other important questions related to constitutional legal questions arisen from actual political development (e.g. in relation to problems of incompatibility of functions or to problems of status and competences of each individual constitutional organ after the loss of confidence of government)
- expert opinions as a reflection on legal insecurity resulting out of new legal regulation (e.g. in questions of status of Office of regulation of electronic communications and post services)
- expert opinions reflecting concrete questions of legal application (e.g. sale or transfer of intellectual property rights by each individual Institute of the SAS).

2.1 Conducted scientific projects

- most significant part of research was realised within the framework of institutionalized projects:

1. APVV project “APVV-0340-10 Law in the dynamics of social development and its theoretical reflection”

- all-institutional project of the Institute – May 2011 - October 2014

2. VEGA

- 7 projects:
- 3x - scheduled for the period January 2010 - December 2012,
- 2x - scheduled for the period January 2014 - December 2016,
- 1x - scheduled for the period January 2015 - December 2016,
- 1x - scheduled for the period January 2015 - December 2017.

2.1 Conducted scientific projects

3. Interacademic contracts:

- in collaboration with the Academy of Sciences of the Czech Republic – the Institute of state and law AS CR,
- with the Polish Academy of Sciences – the Institute of legal sciences of the Polish Academy of Sciences,
- with the Institute for recent history AS CR and with Law Faculty of the Carl's University in Prague.

2.1 Conducted scientific projects

1. APVV project “APVV-0340-10 Law in the dynamics of social development and its theoretical reflection”

- all-institutional project of the Institute – May 2011 - October 2014

(Principal investigators J. Švidroň, J. Vozár)

- research topic included multidisciplinary legal relations

- divided into two parts:

- 1.questions of positive law- public and private law, european and international law

- 2.questions of legal theory (including research in the field of legal philosophy and legal history)

2.1 Conducted scientific projects

APVV project - 1. part

- reflection of the latest European and international harmonisation projects in the field of civil and business law in the Slovak legal order with the emphasize on the selected issues of contractual law, economic competition, intellectual property law, protection of personality, social security and perfection of state administration as well as international aspects of globalisation
- starting research orientation in this scope of topics were provided by various significant international and European harmonisation projects (mainly Principles UNIDROIT, PECL, CFR and the accompanying results of the latest European and globally-focused international research)
- research explored primarily new trends in development of obligation law, protection of competition by antitrust law (mainly civil law aspects of the competition law which were not subject of systematic scientific attention), selected interdisciplinary aspects of protection against unfair competition (deceptive advertisement, comparative advertisement, advertisement of tobacco and medicines), protection of personal rights (right to privacy, protection of reputation and dignity, equality and discrimination issues)

2.1 Conducted scientific projects

APVV project - 2. part

- central orientation of the research = change and fragmentation of law and their theoretical reflections
- these are key words of current and especially postmodern legal thinking. At least implicitly some trends are based on them, notably postmodern legal thinking and conception of law as autopoietic system.
- in the international context these issues can be situated into the historical social and systematic level with theoretical connection to the Hart's rule of change as perhaps the most adequate attempt to grasp the change of law
- change of law- usually related with the development of interests and values which are predominant in a given society. External factors are relevant for the change of law valid at a certain state territory. In the case of the Slovak Republic as a new member state of the EU it was about determination of the content of valid law which was not always visible from the first sight.

2.1 Conducted scientific projects

VEGA

1. Law and its environment - application of the classic system theory which resulted into a conclusion and at the same time a starting point for a next research in this project, namely that the immediate environment of law understood as a normative system of certain qualities is always a human (principal investigator E. Bárány).

2. New in legal thought – response of legal thought on novelties in society, other scientific fields and nature (principal investigator E. Bárány) was successfully oriented on questions such as delimitation of place where the law is, questions related to legal system and its environment or novelties in law.

3. Preparation, formulation and following changes of the Constitution of SR 1939 – 1945 as a source of research of the contemporary legal science and legal culture (principal investigator K. Zavacká). Subjects of this research were mainly some historical parallels accompanying dissolution of a democratic political system and legal order as well as comparison of selected historical periods with particular regard to the contrast between democratic and totalitarian environments.

2.1 Conducted scientific projects

VEGA

4. Freedom of expression, freedom of the press and protection of personality (principal investigator L. Lapšanský). In a democratic society the freedom of expression, secured in the hierarchy of legal norms at the highest level, belongs to its fundamental attributes. Without this freedom many frauds and scandals would remain concealed. However the restriction of the freedom of expression in direct or indirect forms can result also from a pressure of democratically elected governments.

5. Statute of limitation in connection with the recodification of civil law (principal investigator O. Ovečková). Research in business law focused mainly on the development and practical application of the institute of statute of limitation which was significant for recodification of civil law. From this point of view there were assessed also the last legislative amendments which significantly (mainly in a negative way) affected the legal regulation of statute of limitation.

2.1 Conducted scientific projects

VEGA

6. Economic competition and advertisement (principal investigator J. Vozár). Multidisciplinary relations connected with the questions of competition and advertisement within the Slovak and European level.

7. Legal subjects (providers) of research, development and innovation in the context of transformation of organisations of the Slovak Academy of Sciences (principal investigator B. Králičková). The aim of the project is a detailed analysis of new legal regulation of work of legal subjects (providers) of research, development and innovation in the form of The Public Research Institutions Act and Slovak Academy of Science Act which are being prepared. The aim is also to compare changes which will flow after the enactment of this legal regulation. The project also includes comparative analysis of Czech, Slovak, French and German legal regulation of subject of research, development, and innovation.

2.1 Conducted scientific projects

3. Interacademic contracts:

- in collaboration with the Academy of Sciences of the Czech Republic – the Institute of state and law AS CR:

“Impact of the EU law on legal orders of the Czech Republic and the Slovak Republic – Law – creation, interpretation and application”
(principal investigator for the Institute was O. Ovečková)

- with the Polish Academy of Sciences – the Institute of legal sciences of the Polish Academy of Sciences:

“The influence of the Lisbon Treaty on the legal system in the Slovak Republic and the Polish Republic” (principal investigator for the Institute was P. Colotka)

5.2 Most important studies commissioned for the decision-making authorities, the government and NGOs, international and foreign institutes – selection

- Special position of the researchers - to a significant extent they present outcomes of their research, or expert reasoned opinions on important social problems, in their popularisation activities
- strong aspect of the Institute's activities - provide expert reasoned opinions on various legal issues which are solved within the framework of the activity of the Institute at the request of telecommunication media (see chart 2.7.2 of the Accreditation Questionnaire)

6. Description of how the results and suggestions of the previous assessment were taken into account

from the previous evaluated period strong aspects of the Institute are mainly:

- the timeliness, scope and quality of the outcomes of the research projects and their substantial impact;
- focus on crucial issues of problems of state and law, mainly with respect to the Slovak Republic's entrance into the EU;
- immediate fructification of several partial scientific outcomes of the Institute especially in the constitutional and wider social practice;
- strengthening of the scientific position of the organisation in the international context and its stable scientific reputation together with integrative functioning in national context;
- regular scientific communication through scientific conferences in the Central Europe and through annually organized Autumn School of Law for Ph.D. students and post-doctoral researchers where lectures on new social topics are offered not only to law students but also to students from other scientific and pedagogical institutions from SR as well as from abroad.

6. Description of how the results and suggestions of the previous assessment were taken into account

from the previous evaluated period strong aspects of the Institute are mainly:

- quantitate increase of scientific outcomes as well as the fact that the Institute achieved positive results in all key partial indicators despite the restricted financial support and small number of researchers was described by the evaluators as remarkable
- direct outcomes into the practice in the form of expert and popularisation activities are in adequate proportion to the number of researchers who respond to the actual requirements of practice
- stressed out the fact that the Legal Viewpoint journal is in the long time the most popular theoretical journal in the field of law not only in SR, but it was positively assessed also on the Carlsbad Days of Law and is indexed in prestigious Index to Foreign Legal Periodicals

from the previous evaluated period improvement within the activities of the Institute necessary in: (These recommendations were taken into account and the Institute in the evaluated period 2012 – 2015 paid maximal effort to match them.)

o the need to provide Ph.D. studies and to create environment to admit post-doctoral researchers on the Institute's premises = application for accreditation of Ph.D. studies in the field of Theory of state and law nowadays in process of approval at the Ministry of education, science, research and sport in SR

o to release a journal indexed in the Current Contents database = Institute's theoretical journal for topics of state and law "Legal Viewpoint (Právny obzor)" with longstanding tradition in Slovakia is currently being observed and evaluated, editorial board applied for registration, process of indexing is long-lasting and demanding

6. Description of how the results and suggestions of the previous assessment were taken into account

from the previous evaluated period improvement within the activities of the Institute necessary in:

- quality of the Institute's scientific outputs is indicated also by high average number of quotations per one researcher – this was another successfully matched recommendation from the previous evaluation of the Institute (see point 2.2 and chart 2.2.1 of the Accreditation Questionnaire).

7. Research strategy and future development of the institute for the next five years (2016-2020)

- two new significant grant projects APVV - represent vision of further scientific orientation of the Institute until the year 2020, started to solve them since July 2016. They are focused on topics “Legal pluralism: changes in understanding of law” and “Long-lasting and recent tendencies of development of positive law in selected branches of legal order”.
- efforts to apply within Horizon 2020 scheme together with the Institute of Economic Research of the SAS
